

A space for future growth

This fast-growing financial services institution had outgrown their old space. They needed a fresh office that could grow with them. A high-end space that would adapt to changes. Conventional construction didn't meet all their needs. Enter the DIRTT method of construction.

Connect First designed and built their brand new, 63,000-square-foot head office in just six months. It meets all their needs today, including private meeting rooms, coffee areas, phone booths and office space. Because it's so easy to reconfigure DIRTT, the space is ready to adapt to their needs tomorrow. Connect First is so happy with the way their head office promotes collaboration, they're already planning their expansion with DIRTT.
