

One interior, two different buildings

This company had unique requirements for their build. They needed a temporary space until their permanent office was complete. But this pop-up office couldn't be typical. They needed a vibrant environment that would inspire employees. DIRTT's adaptability offered a sustainable solution. This approach would allow Instructure to relocate their space in the future to make the most of their investment.

One year after their temporary space came to life, their full DIRTT interior seamlessly transitioned to their permanent office. This eliminated a significant amount of waste and time. As a busy software company, this organization's goal for their move was zero downtime for their team. A rapid four-week install was possible with DIRTT.

Integrated branding

ICE allowed Instructure to experience their space's vision in advance. It engaged their team in the process. DIRTT's technology-backed approach also resulted in a high-quality aesthetic that their employees are proud of. In fact, they love bringing in clients and family members to tour their workspace.

Employees love this space. With DIRTT we are able to integrate technology and give them all the whiteboard space that they want.
